MYSTERY OF COL. NORRIS CLEARED BY HIS LETTERS

Wealthy Kau Rancher's Life Traced In Romance

The romance of the life of Colonel Sam Norris, his early life in Hawaii, the gold discovery in California, and later history of the overthrow of the Queen in 1893 have all been brought to light by a search of the papers of the late Colonel at Kalanikaʻula Ranch, where he kept all papers he ever received with scrupulous care, and by letters received here recently from his relatives in Denmark from him as far back as 1845.

Wilcox the revolutionary leader went to Hawaii with letters of introduction to Norris and a card upon which he wrote a question to Norris who was too deaf to converse with easily shows that Wilcox planned a new constitution six months before it was finally made by the Queen.

On this card this question was asked of Norris, written in a lead pencil, "Don't you think the only way for the good of all that is interested here is to set a new constitution signed by the Queen and then fire out the Supreme Judges?"

The letter of introduction which Wilcox presented to Norris was dated at San Francisco July 27, 1892, and was signed by C. B. Adams. It was on the presentation of this letter of introduction that the conversation took place part of which is the question asked Norris on the card.

Two of the letters on file with Kinney, Ballou, Piosser and Anderson who are presenting the bills of Norris in Denmark, were written to the deceased's parents in January and October 1845, and tell of his arrival here on the bark London, also of his remaining here and opening a lodging house where he had twenty-five lodgers.

In these letters he tells of the early whaling industry and the number of ships which were in port here for supplies.

To the first of these letters he signed his real name of Gottlieb Christensen, but to the second he added a postscript to the effect that his name since leaving home was Samuel Norris and that they should address letters to him in that name.

Letter found in his effects at the ranch tell of the early gold discovery in California at which time he was in partnership with John A. Sutter, and when he took the news of the gold discovery to Sacramento.

At this time he gave to W. H. Hayes a watch made of the gold taken at Sutter's Mill.

In writing to his sister and to a friend in Denmark he tells of ranching in California and losing $200,000 Mexican in one year, also telling his sister in reply to a letter giving news of the death of his parents that it left him "without one friend in this part

"Missionaries" Assailed By McCandless On Hawaii

(Special Bulletin Correspondence.)
HILO, Hawaii, Sept. 23.—Link McCandless, the Democratic candidate for Delegate to Congress, who is touring the island of Hawaii, in company with T. J. Ryan, G. K. Keawe, the Hawaiian interpreter and campaign manager and the Bulletin correspondent, is having a rather unpleasant reception at Hilo.

David Ewaliko, the Democratic leader and dictator, has thrown up the sponge, so far as McCandless is concerned. He has done this because McCandless would not listen, or even take into consideration a few suggestions which he offered for his benefit.

Ewaliko said that if McCandless would not follow his advice, then he would take the back seat and let him (McCandless) run his own campaign on Hawaii.

M. C. De Mello, a prosperous young man of Portuguese parentage from Kona, has an axe to grind. For busness reasons he will probably not do anything for McCandless. According to the Konaites, he is well liked by them. He, too, was interviewed by the Bulletin man, and while he did not openly express his feeling towards McCandless, it is quite certain that he will not do much in his district to get votes for McCandless.

Makekau Bars the Boss.

Senator Makekau, the shrewdest politician on the island, has flatly refused to work for McCandless. Although he was asked repeatedly by McCandless to join his political army, the Hamakua "slippery eel," as the Hawaiians call him, has stubbornly refused to go along with Boss.

McCandless and Makekau had long conference on Thursday afternoon at Hilo, where, it is said, McCandless most urgently pleaded the "slippery eel" Senator to do his assistance and work for him. But there was nothing doing. Makekau stated after the conference that he would not go out to for McCandless under any circumstances.

McCandless Trio.

The only campaign speakers McCandless are Keawe, the old, staunch Democrat, the old, staunch orator, are grumbling because of lack of interest shown in the McCandless, whom they previously intended to support. According to

REPUBLICAN GUNS TO BOOM IN OPENING OF CAMPAIGN AT AALA PARK THIS EVENING

All set for the big Republican fireworks at Aala Park tonight!

With Prince Kuhio as the principal speaker, and every candidate on the Republican county and legislative ticket expected to be present and add his voice to the general chorus, there will be a lot of campaign fireworks set off tonight, starting at 8 o'clock. It is the first salvo of the Republican campaign, and Territorial Chairman Atkinson said this morning that it will start the most systematic and persistent campaign the Grand Old Party has engaged in for a long time.

Colonel Sam Parker, chairman of the county campaign, will be in the chair, and the program calls for a speech from every candidate who attends. George Davis is of the evening, and his address will probably call attention to the main features of the Republican platform and the merits of the candidates presented on the Territorial and county tickets.

The county and legislative candidates will make up a long list, but the speeches will be limited in most cases, and there will be plenty of music for entertainment. Among the candidates who are down for important addresses are John C. Lane, candidate for mayor; Andrew Cox, for sheriff; John Catheart, for city attorney; Robert W. Shingle, for treasurer; James Bicknell, for auditor; D. Kalaokalani Jr., for clerk; and several of the supervisory aspirants.

Charlie Chillingworth, A. F. Judd, Cecil Brown and A. S. Kalelopa, who are the senatorial aspirants, will be down for short talks, and several of the prospective representatives will be on the scene.

Republican headquarters are buzzing with life these days, and beginning tonight the political fight will be carried on without a halt. Chairman Atkinson and Secretary Cooper of the Territorial executive committee and the two district committees of the county are organizing a fast, clockwork campaign and have a big start on the Democrats, who are still fighting among themselves, not only as to their party platform, but even as to the county manager.

PRIVATE CABLE IN DRAKE'S CASE

Accords With the Bulletin's Message On Status of Collectorship.

Private advices that have been received from Washington are in accordance with the cablegram that was received several days ago from the Bulletin's correspondent at Washington, John E. Monk, stating that the resignation of Collector of Internal Revenue Walter Drake would be accepted and a successor appointed in his place.

Correspondent Monk's cable was to the effect that Drake's resignation would be accepted and a successor appointed in his place and this is practically the same information that is contained in the private cable that was received last night.

It is expected that Drake's successor will be named in the course of the next week or two.

PLAGUE SUSPECT DELAYS ASIA

Arrived From Orient Early and Docked Just Before Noon Hour.

After being delayed nearly five hours by quarantine officers making an examination of a Filipino suspected of plague, the British steamer Asia, Captain Harry Gaukroger, finally tied up at Alakea wharf at 11:35 this morning.

The Asia brought but two cabin passengers to Honolulu, two Japanese, eleven Hindus in the steerage and sixty Filipinos in the same class for this port.

Cargo amounting to 639 tons was brought here and forty-five sacks of mail from Oriental ports.

The Asia is carrying through to San Francisco, for which port she will be dispatched late today, 2974

HONOLULU GIRLS COUGH SULPHUR

Misses Cooper, Wickstrum and McCorriston's Experience At Volcano.

HILO, Sept. 22.—Three young ladies from Honolulu and one from Lincoln Nebraska, who have been spending ten days at the Volcano House and who return tomorrow by the Mauna Kea, had a most unpleasant experience at the Halemauumanu pit during the latter part of the week. They had made a trip to the crater and were talking of sewing, candy, meeting socks, matinee heroes, dusting pictures, the best looking men whom they had met and other like subjects, which are bound to come up when three girls meet and are all alone, when suddenly the wind changed and clouds of smoke, instead of being driven away from the resthouse, as they generally are, were forced across the crater to where the party was standing and enveloped them in a mass of sulphurous fumes.

Coughing and half strangled with the sulphur smoke the three started for another position, where they could breathe with comfort, but Madame Pele seemed anxious for temporary victims at least, and pursued them as they ran. Each time they seemed to reach a space where the air was clear, another gust of wind forced them on till all three were nearly exhausted and were, safe from the repetition of the unpleasant experience.

In the meantime others were becoming worried and a relief party composed of Demosthenes Lyceus and several young men who were staying at the Volcano House, who had happened to see the sudden shift of the wind and knew that the three young ladies were at the crater, had started to the scene of distress. Their services were not needed, however, as everything was over before they were more than a short distance down the side of Kilaeua. It is understood that Miss Cooper, Miss Wickstrum and Miss McCorriston have formed a trio which is assiduously practicing, "If the Wind Had Only Blown the Other Way."

KUHIO PLANS ISLAND TOUR

Candidate For Delegate Will Hit Trail of Boss McCandless.

Prince Kuhio will begin his active campaign for re-election as delegate to Congress next Tuesday, when he leaves Honolulu for Hilo. Accompanying Kuhio will be Col. Sam Parker, chairman of the county committee, and the two will make a round-up not only of Hawaii but probably of Maui also. They will go by way of Kau and up to Kohala.

A large part of the route will be the same as is now being traversed by Link McCandless and the Republican politicians figure that Kuhio will not only undo all of McCandless' work, but get a good many other votes besides.

The Republican ticket picked up at least seven good votes this morning by the action of Kuhio and Territorial Chairman A. L. C. Atkinson. It happened this way:

The Kona crew which has been competing here, was away from home at the time the board of registration was in session there. There are seven voters in the bunch of oarsmen, and they are all anxious to exercise their inalienable right to cast a ballot. Prince Kuhio and Chairman Atkinson got busy and chartered a launch, which will take the seven voters from the steamer Mauna Kea, land them at Kawaihae, where they can register, and then take them home. It is some job for seven voters, but Atkinson said this morning that these men should not be deprived of their votes and this was the only way to settle the difficulty.

WILL RECOMMEND HAWAIIAN NATIONAL GUARD AS WORTHY OF AID FROM GOVERNMENT

That the Hawaiian national guard is worthy the attention, aid and encouragement of the Federal government, and that its officers are to be "new" for their zeal and enthusiasm, is the gist of the recommendations that will be made to the war department at Washington by Col. R. L. Bullard, U. S. A., who today concluded his work as head of the school of instruction at Fort Shafter.

Col. Bullard's report in the main will deal with the actual work accomplished in the camp, but within the somewhat restricted limits of this report he will strongly recommend the Territorial guard to the war department. The report is made by him directly to Gen. Bliss in San Francisco and through Gen. Bliss to the war department.

Just what the colonel will report is confidential, but the tenor of it was given out this morning. With his work in the camp practically at an end and his week of inspection and instruction concluded, Col. Bullard has no hesitancy in saying that the federal government should give the Hawaiian guard everything possible.

"The military situation in Hawaii is too well known to need elaboration," said the colonel, "and in view of this situation, it is very evident to me that right now Hawaiian militia affairs are more important than those of any state in the Union. Going further, I will say that the Hawaiian officers have now a bigger opportunity than those of any other part of the United States.

Islands Give Great Chance.
"Right here in the islands there exists a wonderful military opportunity for American citizens who can look into the future and see the part that the national guard is to play in this Territory. And this applies also to the officers of the regular troops stationed here. If they take an interest in the militia, they can make the most of a great opportunity also.

"I want to say, after a week with the Hawaiian officers, that they fully appreciate their opportunity. My investigation has convinced me that the officers of native birth can grasp the war problems and become imbued with the military spirit admirably, and this will also be noted.

"Altogether, the week of work has proved that the war department can build up a wonderfully strong ally in the Hawaiian national guard, one that in time of war would be invaluable. Knowing the country and how to get around in it, the Territorial guard could do things the regulars

Col. Bullard says that no where he has ever instructed has been of more service, than the officers at Fort Shafter. The Territorial officers say the same thing, and only regret is that the practices they have received cannot be supplemented by regular instruction from now on.

Col. C. W. Ziegler said this morning:

"This camp has been one of the best things that ever happened to the Hawaiian national guard. In particular the tactical walks and problems have been very helpful.

"It is a pity the war department cannot keep up some system of instruction down here, for badly needed. If we had tactical walks and war problems to work say once a week, it would mean great increase in efficiency."
